

How to Become a Secret Shopper

Contributed by Andrew Wacker
Wednesday, 01 November 2006

The world is filled with bizarre jobs. Have you ever met one of those people who claim to have the most random career, such as playing video games, or tasting candy bars? Your first thought is probably rather spiteful, but don't despise, find a fun job for yourself. Thousands of people enjoy careers these days that pay the bills without all of the stress. For example, hop online and discover how to become a secret shopper. Have you ever heard of such a thing? Well, believe it or not, they do exist. You too can in fact learn how to become a secret shopper today.

Are you a shopping nut? If so, then wouldn't it be ideal to learn how to become a secret shopper and actually get paid to buy things? There's this whole secret organization called Mystery Shoppers. It's basically a group of elite professional shoppers who browse from store to store in search of great customer service and products. Okay, so they're not really so elite. Anyone can learn how to become a secret shopper. The first step in this process is getting online. Yes, once again the Internet has come through for us.

Pop open your favorite search engine and punch in "how to become a secret shopper." You will soon notice that people around the country get paid to shop for a living. Most secret shoppers are paid a specific amount for a single job, in addition to receiving some money to make a purchase. Yes, you actually get to keep what you purchase. In return, the secret shopping employer will want feedback. How was the service? What did you purchase, and what is the quality? Would you return to that business? Who helped you? These are all common queries. The goal is to find out how establishments are doing, and what employees are excelling.

Back when I was a bartender, I encountered a secret shopper. Yes, they even venture into eateries and pubs. Eating out for free certainly sounds like a fringe benefit. After the secret shopper had sat at the bar and had a drink, she let me in on her motives. She said that she was a mystery shopper and enjoyed my service. You simply never know when these folks will pop up. If you're interested in learning how to become a secret shopper, jump online now and do some quick research. It only takes a few minutes to learn the game and see if they would have a need for you regarding your current location. To be successful, it's good to be near a large city or urban environment.